Scrofula

In one of the most fatal scourges which afflict mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of impure blood,

infectious, mercurial, poison, uncleanliness, and various other causes. Chronic Sores,

Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Tumors,

and, in some cases, Emaciation and Consumption, result from a general condition of the blood.

This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Tinherited scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a disfigurement of my whole system.

After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla I am

and, for the past year have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever.

I am now in better health, and stronger than ever before.

—O. A. Willard, 218 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health.

Elizabeth Warnock, 14 Appleton Street, Lowell, Mass.

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen, and the sores were very painful.

Every remedy failed until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By using three bottles of this medicine the sores have been healed, and my health is restored.

I am grateful for the good it has done me.

FOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. FOUTELLE, Editor.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1886.

Senator Edmunds has been re-elected by the Vermont Legislature. Mr. Edmunds first took his seat in the Senate in 1866 and since then has been successively re-elected.

The latest phase of the New York bribery case is the arrest of Jacob Sharpe on an indictment found by the Grand Jury for bribing the hoodie Alderman. The bail was fixed at $80,000.

Congressman "Tim" Campbell is aggrieved at the scathing treatment he has received at the hands of the World, the leading organ of New York Democracy. He declares that Campbell's presence in Congress is a disgrace brought about by shameful political deals and adds: "Soberly, do the electors of the Eighth Congressional District think they are treating the people of the United States, to say nothing of themselves, fairly by contributing to Congress? Suppose that whole body of men of men of his type! Self-respect and instincts of patriotism both cry out against such prostitutions of our political privileges."

When does the State Department propose to take action in the case of the Marion Grimes whose flag was hauled down by the captain of a Canadian cruiser?

The only action that the State Department has taken or is likely to take is to practically apologize for the American captain who refused to strike his colors when ordered to do so by the upstart command of the Dominion cruiser. Hanging down an American flag is not regarded as anything serious by Mr. Bayard. In his opinion adverse criticism of the Secretary of State is the only thing that is of sufficient importance to warrant notice and then his faithful lieutenant, Minister Phelps, stands ready to execute the order should the offender chance to visit England.

We learn that a number of the parents of the students who were suspended from the Maine State College, when they showed a disposition to assume the role of government, have written to the Faculty expressing their hearty approval of their determination to break up hazing and their treatment of this particular case. This being the fact it is probable that most of the students will soon return to the college and finish their course. The incident was an unfortunate one, but it will doubtless have a beneficial effect in the end, as it will tend to strengthen the confidence of the friends of the college in the ability of the Faculty to govern the institution and will convince the students that hazing is a thing of the past and will not be tolerated under any circumstances.

There is no reason to doubt that when the nomination of Maury as Minister to Colombia again comes before the Senate it will meet with the same prompt rejection that was accorded it when first proposed. Maury was dismissed from the regular army in 1861 for treason and joined the Confederacy soon after. He remained no longer than to obtain valuable information which he sent to the Southern States and then ran away himself before he could be arrested. Just prior to his appointment he publicly executed the rights of the Confederate cause and to-day he is the flag of the country, and he was ready to fight under it again if necessary.

The selection of such a man for a Federal office in the first place was a burning disgrace to the Administration, and his appointment after he had been rejected by the Senate is simply "inexcusable."

Mr. Blaine's Pennsylvania speech, which he is delivering at intervals throughout the State, is the same old tariff speech which provoked the ringing of the chestnut bell by Mr. Maury and which a few weeks ago—New York Evening Post.

It is not surprising that our Democratic friends or their Mugwump allies should feel like ringing the chestnut bell on the Maine election, as Republicans in this State are getting to be very tiresome to the opposition. So also is Mr. Blaine's unprecedented popularity with the masses, as well as his troublesome faculty of letting daylight through the free trade sophistries which organs like the Post are fond of unloading on the people, but we fail to see what they are going to do about it. Mr. Blaine will continue to go Republican and Mr. Blaine will not lose an iota of his popularity on account of this magpie habit indulged in by the free trade organs of scolding whenever his name is mentioned.

The New York World thinks President Cleveland desires a re-nomination he must do something to indicate that he deserves the honor. It says: "Mr. Cleveland is not likely to get the nomination without the active support of the Federal office-holders (which is forbidden in theory but has yet done nothing to discourage practice), and not even then unless his own State should present his name. Just now that the disaffection among the most active party men, so great as here, still is something during the next eighteen months to deserve the nomination he will get it. But it will require positive action and do nothing will not suffice."

The last sentence of the above paragraph fits the Administration to a dot. President Cleveland can beat all former occupants of the White House at making pledges and breaking them.

Ireland's cause has, indeed, a most eloquent and able champion in Justin McCarthy. The cause of the distinguished statesman, historian and orator is well known to our people, and it is one of genuine pleasure that they greeted him last evening on his visit to Bangor. His presentation of the Irish question, which is simply a demand on the part of the people of that island that they be permitted to exercise the rights of self-government, was clear, candid and forcible, and at once elicited the sympathy of his hearers. The birth, growth and in one sense the success of the Parnell movement, so ably supported by Minister Gladstone, most interestingly brought to the whole question before the audience in the clearest possible light. Mr. McCarthy is firmly convinced that Home Rule for Ireland is only a question of a very few years, and certainly the remarkable growth of the movement, together with the fact that it has the moral support of the people everywhere, seems to fully warrant the prediction.

Candidate George has challenged Candidate Hewitt to a discussion in the New York mayoralty contest.

These in charge of the New York Republican campaign regard the election of Judge Daniels as practically assured, and look for an increased majority in the Assembly and the gain of the Republican Congressional delegation. We have to see the Republicans handsomely substantiate this prediction at the polls.

According to a despatch from Chicago a laborer at lamping, Michigan, has been sent enough to accumulate a large fortune by a simple operation that escaped the attention of the large operators. The despatch says: "John T. Jones, who a few months ago was working as a day laborer, is now independently wealthy. His fortune was acquired in a most singular manner. When he first came here he worked about different mines for awhile, but finally offered $5 cents a ton for a pile of rock at the Winthrop Holistic Company's mines, the money to be paid as the rock was removed. He also bought other piles of rock at the same price. The company was surprised one day when Jones set a force of men at work working the rock and carting off the ore. It now transpires that the rock pans out ore half a ton, for which Jones received $5.50 a ton. The Winthrop pile alone netted him nearly $100,000. The work has been conducted upon the very edge of the mill owners, who have regarded the rock piles as worthless and paid no attention to Jones. The ore has been largely shipped to Joliet. He can buy no more rock, and the owners are going about sampling the heaps of refuse which dot the mining fields."

Mr. Blaine's Oration.

The popularity of Mr. Blaine would appear from the demonstration of Saturday night to be immeasurable. His great and pervading personality, great as it is, is sufficient to account for the general admiration and affection which his countrymen have for him; they pay tribute to something more than a magnetic personality; they recognize in Mr. Blaine a great and courageous leader, a citizen who represents a life and labors vital political ideas, one who shapes public opinion, controls masses by the originality and strength of his thought. He leads, they follow. Not only no other Republican, but no other American could have achieved the triumph which Mr. Blaine achieved on Saturday night.

There is no denying the significance of the demonstration which has taken place in this city on Saturday evening. In honor of James G. Blaine. Mr. Blaine is a great orator and he could not speak anywhere without the assembling of a multitude to hear him; but Saturday evening's outpouring was due to something more than a desire to enjoy the Maine statesman's eloquence. It was rather a tribute of affection and respect paid by the masses of the public city of the Union to the man who above all others is recognized as the representative leader of the Republican party and who to-day in the private station which he holds is the most illustrious and influential of living Americans. It is evident that "Blaine of Maine" is not a name of his prestige in the Republic. Rather has he strengthened the hold which he has always had, and which no slander or misrepresentation has ever been able to weaken, upon the hearts of this community.

Mr. Blaine met with a series of ovations yesterday which began as he left Philadelphia in the morning and continued practically until the close of the meeting at Harrisburg. Every feature of the programme was carried out and rather more, as the great leader was called upon to speak more often than was originally designed. All along the way there were the greatest crowds of people, many of whom had come from long distances in the interest to see and hear Mr. Blaine. The meeting at the State capital last night was "only the climax of the day's triumph." "The journey will be resumed this morning from the Pennsylvania, westward and by the time Pittsburgh is reached the thought, many thousands of people will have been aroused to a greater interest in the course and meaning of the political battle now in progress in Pennsylvania. It looks as though; the cities of the interior were determined to outdo Philadelphia even in paying enthusiastic tribute to Mr. Blaine.

The outpouring of great masses of people on Saturday was a tribute to the statesman from Maine and far more to the fact that in honor of the most popular living chief of the rolls of the Republican party for mistakes about the spontaneity of the movement or the genuineness of the enthusiasm any more than there is about the magnitude of the three assemblies—the Academy, the Horticultural Hall, and that which packed Broad street for several squares. It is true there had been a good deal of heralding and advance advertising, but such demonstrations as that which greeted Mr. Blaine cannot be brought out by any artificial means. It was spontaneous homage to the man by vast numbers of his fellow-Republicans and others who believe in him as a leader and statesman, and who are proud of him and proud of him as an American and as the most eloquent spokesman of the Republican party. No living statesman of any party has at this time the magnetic attractiveness which Mr. Blaine has.
